Conflict of Interest form

Authors should disclose, at the time of submission, information on financial conflicts of interest or other interests that may influence the manuscript. So, completion, signing, and uploading the ICMJE Form for Disclosure of Potential Conflicts of Interest is necessary for all authors during submission process and the articles submission won't be accepted without filling this form.

Also, at the end of the text, under a subheading "Conflict of interest statement" all authors must disclose any financial and personal relationships with other people or organisations that could inappropriately influence (bias) their work. Examples of potential conflicts of interest include employment, consultancies, stock ownership, honoraria, paid expert testimony, patent applications/registrations, and research grants or other funding.

A form of conflict of interest is an agreement that the author(s) of an article declares that in connection with the publication of an article submitted, they entirety obligated to publication ethic, and have avoided plagiarism, misconduct, data forgery, or duplication and there is no commercial interest in this regard and the authors have not received any money for presenting their aricle. The conflict-of-interest form shows to the readers of the work how that article was prepared and presented by the authors. The Corresponding author signs and approves this form on behalf of other authors and declares the originality of its content. The Corresponding author also states that this work has not been published elsewhere before and has not been presented to another journal at the same time. Also, all rights to use the content, tables, images, etc. have been assigned to the publisher.
